IDEATHON

THE MISSION:

Unlike a traditional competition, this is a Direct Battle.

The Drop: Teams will be presented with 1-4 Real-Life College-Based Problem Statements. These are issues students and faculty face every day—ranging from campus logistics to student engagement.

The Build: Teams must brainstorm, research, and build a Business Prototype (B-Plan, Revenue Model, and Execution Strategy).

Review & Mentoring: During the hackathon, "Sentinels" (Mentors) will conduct review sessions to grill your idea and help you refine your pitch before the final showdown.

The Grand Pitch: Present your final business model to a panel of Real-Life Businessmen and Investors. Prove that your idea isn't just a theory, but a viable venture.

THE SACRED RULES OF IDEATHON

- Direct Entry: This is a "First-Come, First-Served" battle. No prior submissions or screening rounds.
- The Time Heist: Teams will have a strictly allotted time to work on their solutions within the venue.
- The Prototype: The focus of this event is the Business Prototype. This includes your value proposition, target audience, and financial sustainability.
- No Pre-baked Ideas: The problem statements are revealed on the spot. Any team found using a pre-existing business plan not related to the provided statements will be disqualified.
- Mentoring Protocol: Teams must be present for all review sessions. Feedback from mentors must be considered for the final pitch.
- The Sovereign's Decree: The final pitch will be judged by industry professionals. Their decision is final and absolute.
